

Ian Soars

CEO OF DAD.INFO AND FEGANS
CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH
& PARENTING CAMPAIGNER

BIO

Ian brought his 18 years experience at Hays driving large contract design and delivery when he joined Fegans as Chief Executive, a Christian children's charity that undertakes qualified, expert care with the most vulnerable of children.

Ian is a trained parent support worker and focuses on how we can raise our children to be resilient and with good mental health. He runs workshops with recently separated parents as part of divorce recovery programmes and works with families in their homes to help support parents to be the best they can be. Fegans' parent support, intervention and training programme provides families in need with skills to help them become self-sufficient and break generational cycles of behaviour. Stop Ian and ask him about our parenting programme for separated families.

Outside of the world of parent support, Ian spends time with his wife and three teenage daughters, is learning to box and attends Kings Church in Eastbourne where he lives.
